Radical Statistics Group - Who we are

The RSG was formed in 1975 by researchers and statisticians with a common concern about the political implications of their work and an awareness of the actual and potential misuse of statistics. The RSG is independent of any other organisation. Members are 'radical' in being committed to helping build a more free, democratic and egalitarian society. Our particular concerns are:

- The mystifying use of technical language to disguise social problems as technical ones
- The lack of control by the community over the aims of statistical investigations, the way these are conducted and the use of the information produced
- The power structures within which statistical and research workers are employed and which control the work and how it is used
- The fragmentation of social problems into specialist fields, obscuring connectedness

Website

Visit the website www.radstats.org.uk for more information about our activities. There you will find back issues of Radical Statistics, reports, press releases, useful links and announcements. (managed by Robin Rice email: rice@staffmail.ed.ac.uk)

Discussion list

A lively exchange of views can be found at the RadStats e-mail list. This can be accessed from the website or at: <http://www.jiscmail.ac.uk/lists/radstats.html> (listowner: Alison Macfarlane email: A.J.Macfarlane@city.ac.uk)

How to subscribe

Radical Statistics is usually produced three times a year and is available from Radical Statistics, 27/2 Hillside Crescent, Edinburgh EH7 5EF. admin@radstats.org.uk

How we are organised

The 'Troika', which co-ordinates and promotes the work of RSG helped by an administrator, is elected at each AGM. The editorship of Radical Statistics rotates. Sub-groups are open to all members for RSG activity between AGMs. Let the troika know if you want to help set up a sub-group other than the one given below.

Contributions to Radical Statistics

The format for submissions may be found at <http://www.radstats.org.uk/editors.htm>.

Note that articles accepted for publication may be subject to agreed editorial changes and will usually appear in the next issue. If you have any queries, please contact the editors.

Refereed articles

If you wish to have your article refereed before publication, please state this clearly and send it via e-mail attachment if possible (as a rich text format file). Your article will be read for clarity and relevance to the concerns of Radical Statistics; amendments to improve the article may be required by the editors before publication as a refereed article.

Disclaimer

The views expressed are those of individual authors and are not necessarily shared by the Radical Statistics Group or its editors. Copyright remains with the authors, and requests to reproduce extensive material should be addressed to them. The Group and its editors cannot be held responsible for errors or any consequences arising.

Schedule for future publications

Upcoming Issues will highlight the mis-measurement of health and wealth, will feature winning essays from the Radical Statistics 2011 Critical Essay Competition, commentary from the Reduced Statistics group, and a history of the formation of Radstats, as well as a range of other topics.

Suggestions and contributions are welcome. Articles or comments can be topical or cite the earlier work of RadStats, which has been active since 1975. Book reviews and short comment or news pieces are particularly welcome. We also welcome articles that adopt an international perspective on Radical Statistics.

Articles on whatever topic can be submitted to editors@radstats.org.uk.

If you have an interest in a specific topic area and would like to get involved in editing a special issue please get in touch and we can put out a call for papers on the subject to the RadStats list to get you started.
