

RADICAL STATISTICS

Annual Conference and AGM, 2008

A Decade of Devolution: How Does it Measure Up?

Saturday March 1st, 2008

Registration, 9:30-10

Drill Hall, 36 Dalmeny Street in Leith, Edinburgh

The programme covers subjects as diverse as:

- National identity
- Attitudes to devolution
- Voting patterns
- Poverty, wealth and place
- Attitudes to social care
- Migration
- Measurement of child wellbeing
- A data strategy for Scotland
- The Barnett formula

Registration is £20 and includes lunch.
Student rate available for £10.

*More information on the conference website.
Programme, speakers' abstracts,
booking, travel & social events*

<http://www.radstats.org.uk/conf2008/>

Queries and bookings can be sent to admin@radstats.org.uk

The Radical Statistics Group was formed in 1975 as part of the radical science movement associated with the establishment of the British Society for Social Responsibility in Science (BSSRS). The researchers and statisticians who started Radstats shared a common concern about the political implications of their work and an awareness of the actual and potential misuse of statistics. Members of Radical Statistics believe that statistics can be used to support radical campaigns for progressive social change.